Mobile port.

One button interface, which is good because it will help you out for when you want to use that button to uninstall it after you get bored in 5 minutes.

Would not recommend for PC.

<https://youtu.be/UUYAF9FUuBNI>. If Timberman and Temple Run had a baby, this game would be it.

One button clicky fun.

Obstacle sound effects can get a little irritating after a while, but honestly, this is a silly and fun little game.. Given the controls and interface, I can only assume this was meant to be a mobile game. Ended up with a coupon, got it for 20 cents. Still couldn't make it worth my time.. remember when steam didn't allow \u2665\u2665\u2665\u2665\u2665 mobile apps. yet another mindless piece of well you know! if you do get this game only do it for the game cards at least you can get something back besides an empty wallet and a piece of well you know!. Time killer

Got it for cheap with a coupon. to be earnest, its a great game, if its on mobile. on pc, it just feels like a un-optimised mobile port, with bad control that don't work half the time. the only button that will work is properly the uninstall button.

Don't recommend getting it for playing on pc. maybe it works with touch on a 2in1? otherwise get it for the cards but only if you have a coupon for it like i did.. I Can't say that for most of less than 1 dollar games in Steam.

This is not shovel ware, it's actual and very simple game.

Yes it looks and plays like mobile game port, but as far as I have been playing it has been doing it mostly fine.

Only thing that I don't like is that it's so much mobile game port, that there is ingame ads (about games own products). Usually those are removed from Steam releases.

Still cool and fun game for a while and worth of my -90% coupon and 14 cents.. Lamp Head is a junk mobile port with one button control that doesn't work half the time. Cost me .26 in the Oriplay bundle(1.10 on sale) and I still paid too much for it.
